INTRODUCTION

The Ammassalimmiut, on the east coast of Greenland, formed part of the last Inuit group that had contact with the «white man». It happened when the Danish explorer, Gustav Holm, found them in 1884. This is about the last direct descendants of the Dorset and Thule arctic cultures. Its relative isolation and strong ties with the past have led to an enormous maintenance of their cultural and survival traditions: even their dialect is archaic compared to the greater part of Greenland's population. Our goal will be to get submerged in this unique Inuit culture, learn from their skills, and be first-hand witnesses to their adaptation to the environment. The name «Tunu» means: «the opposite side, back, back side», since it is precisely the largest human concentration that is found in the other part of the island, on the West Coast. And so, this region constitutes «the other face of life, the other face of Greenland». During this trekking tour will also visit traditional populations while enjoying the spectacular views of the fjords, glaciers and icebergs of this wonderful Greenlandic region. The possibility to observe seals, whales (basically sei and narwhals whales), polar bears and arctic foxes, and also of the majestic Northern Lights. Our aim will be to explore the land of the Ammassalimiut, on foot and by boat. In addition, this trekking in Greenland expedition will give us the opportunity to see a beautiful area of remote valleys of the Arctic, mountains and fjords huge, full of icebergs. And we can also see the layer of ice that covers more than 80% of the island.

PLACE TO VISIT

Kulusuk

Population: 241 (2019)

Kulusuk area was, previously, the most populated area in Ammassalik due to the good conditions for fishing and hunting. Kulusuk is located in a small rocky island surrounded by steep mountains and wide fiords and frequently icebergs and a crystalline ice sea.

In 1930, 165 people were living in Kulusuk settlement, compare with the 112 people living in Tasiilaq. Nowadays the almost 300 people living in Kulusuk make this settlement the biggest in the region behind Kuummiut and Tasiilaq. The main source of income in Kulusuk still is the hunting and the fishing.

Besides, it is an important local handmade place mainly because the manufacturing of 'tupilaat' and masks.

Kuummiut

Population: 258 (2019)

It is the second largest settlement in the Ammassalik region and is located 40 kilometers north of Tasiilaq, deep within the Ammassalik Fjord. From the settlement you can enjoy incredible views ranging from the fjord to the Strait of Denmark. Kuummiut was established as a mission in 1915. In this town there is a salting factory, the only fish factory in the district. The famous East Greenland artist and teacher Kârale Andreassen was born in Kuummiut in 1890, as well as the son of the Inuit spiritual leader, the shaman Mitsivarnianga. The Kârale Glacier is one of the most important glaciers in the north of Kuummiut, and there are glaciers of all kinds of sizes and characteristics, as well as countless peaks that rise above them.

NOTES

The program in its order and content may vary depending on the weather, sea and drift ice conditions, the presence of animals and the decisions of the Inuit skippers / hunters and X-plore guides at that time. We will adapt the route and its content according to the conditions and options that are offered to us at all times. The guide will adapt the program and activities according to the group.

No cook will travel on this expedition, so preparing the meal will be a team effort. Most of the breakfasts and dinners will be freeze-dried food and picnic lunches due to the lack of infrastructure in this area, or also due to the activities being carried out at that time. European food will be mixed with local food, prepared by the group.

All Along the expedition the cooperation of all the participants will be crucial.
